

As the CIA has demonstrated in the case of delegated procurement authority for ADP, ~~concerning procurement~~ ~~public laws can be implemented~~

~~through our delegation and the agency's mission~~

The agency's mission can be ~~not~~ ~~just~~ <sup>in a timely manner</sup> supported, as well as upholding public laws concerning procurement. OSA has advised

this delegation on three occasions since granted
in 1973 and complemented ~~and broadened~~

CIA with ~~exercising~~ exercising this authority.

~~and~~ In 1978, <sup>OSA</sup> broadened the authority, ~~to~~ this is the direction we believe the NAPT study

should recommend. [In our case, there is no evidence that this has a will lead to greater workable of management a ~~ref~~ reference malicious

(2)

In fact, CIA already has a demonstrated track record of conducting its administrative functions ~~within~~ consistent with its legal authorities so increased delegation for GSA should not be viewed as a risky venture at all.

X

STAT

Not sure I quite like this, sounds like someone else what you think.

STAT

